INDEFINITE SUSPENSE

Principal effect of the new system of giving selectees final physical examinations at the outset of the induction process, then placing them in a manpower pool for at least 21 days may be creation of a new type of suspense. It will resemble the experience of reserve officers, who frequently have cleared the hurdles of physical fitness and swearing-in, only to sweat out a long anti-climax of waiting before being called for induction.

Otherwise, the new system, which is to be put into effect after the first of next month, seems to have everything in its favor. It gives all selectees at least 21 days to get ready to go into service. It will ease the pressure on medical examiners. It may even have the effect of giving some of the older men now facing induction in carload lots a chance to start getting toughened up while they still can call on their wives to come to their rescue with horse liniment.

A PRESIDENT'S LADY

It is a shock to be reminded that Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who seemed to have been only recently the gracious mistress of the White House, was 68 when she died. Though she had been out of the Washington spotlight for a decade, Mrs. Hoover still held the admiring attention of millions she never had seen, but who remembered her fondly for her quiet dignity.

It is deeply significant of something fine in our national character that the occupants of the White House are expected to be as nearly perfect symbols as possible of the ideal family. It is almost impossible to imagine that their place ever could be filled by a wholly unnatural individual like Adolf Hitler, or a political leader of dubious social behavior like Benito Mussolini. The American people place extremely high value on the accomplishments and charm of their first lady.

Mrs. Hoover filled the place with extreme distinction. She appeared but rarely in public, but was extremely active in her role of the nation's first hostess. Her passing has taken away from the people she helped her distinguished husband to serve, one of their most admired public figures.

LABOR IS NOT ABOVE CRITICISM

Organized labor is coming dangerously close, in answering its critics, to the position that it is above criticism from any source.

This would be a disastrous mistake, as disastrous as the similar mistake made by big business under similar circumstances a decade ago. Then, as now, the American public was aware of defects that needed correction and receptive to suggestions for bringing it about—and then, as now, the stubborn refusal of the objects of the criticism to accept any of it in good faith merely added to the vehemence of the critics.

Organized labor has become one of the strongest minorities in the nation. Its strength entails acceptance of responsibility for its behavior; that is one of the obligations of strength. If it refuses to accept responsibility, other elements in the population must have recourse to collective action; that was the motivation behind the Smith-Connally act, and it is the motivation of all proposals to make the organized labor minority more strictly accountable.

Some of the proposals of correction are not made in good faith. But most of them are—and most of them deal only with matters which labor leadership could correct by its own initiative. The public in general has no more desire to see organized labor hamstrung by punitive law than it has to see business enterprise hamstrung. It would prefer to have both of them do their own housecleaning. For the immediate future it would like to see organized labor withhold all further work stoppages for the sake not only of production but for the benefit of the morale of millions of American fighting men who are facing injury and death to win the war.

CONGRESSMEN ARE POLITICIANS

In a national election year the fact that congressmen are politicians predetermines their political behavior. Congress cannot be dissociated from party government.

But there is imperative need as congress reconvenes for realistic appreciation of the acute need for something besides merely partisan behavior. Unless congressmen can strike a proper balance between political expediency and statesmanship in 1944, they will sacrifice their prestige as an independent source of government wisdom and initiative.

They already have hurt themselves by the ineptitude of their behavior during the first session—behavior which resulted in a program of legislation being left at loose ends while congress went home for the holidays. This was the congress which was expected to regain the legislative dignity and authority lost during the rubber stamp era of the New Deal. It is the congress which still hasn't been able to convince the people that it is able to come up to its own or the people's expectations.

The result to date is to raise widely the question of whether this congress may have suffered from withdrawal of executive leadership. It has failed to supplant President Roosevelt's formerly too aggressive attitude toward the legislative with an aggressive attitude of its own. In its handling of domestic problems it has lacked determination and leadership. While some of the problems, such as subsidies, are extremely difficult, it has done no better with easy problems, such as settlement of mustering-out pay.

Whatever individual and collective excuses may be advanced for its failure to rise to the occasion, congress has fallen short. It will need to outdo itself from now on to recover the ground it has lost, not only in its handling of legislation but in its standing in public opinion. If ever the American people needed the testimony of good legislative performance to refute the eager claim that the nation's salvation lies in the continued growth of executive authority it is in the year 1944.

The former practice of making congress the whipping boy for capricious criticism of the government in general was discarded long ago by thoughtful citizens of the republic. They realized in time that they were playing directly into the hands of the natural enemies of the legislative process—the believers in government by executive authority. But that realization does not prevent them now from hoping that congress may find in itself the means of justifying their faith in its ability to exercise responsibility better than it was exercised during 1943.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, January 11

WHILE THERE may be some unusual or exciting opportunity for making quick turns, either in industry, business, science or invention, judging by the lunar transits, yet there is danger from too hasty and overstrained effort, which may retard or defeat entirely the desired objectives. Under the advice of superiors or others whose cooperation is required, and with proper consideration of the rules and regulations, definite advance may be expected. Practical efforts even in promoting extraordinary propositions or projects may prove productive.

Alluring Opening

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which there may be an alluring opening for launching some program or project of more than unusual importance. In fact, exceptional novel or radical ideas may attract the support and sound advice of competent and influential persons, whose promotional ability as well as funds are requisite. The danger of being carried away by excitement or a compelling impulse to win out even at cost of accepted codes, is imminent. With restraint, practical skill, ingenuity and friendly advice there may be progress in attaining desired objectives.

A child born on this day, while having skill, ingenuity and advanced ideas and objectives, is likely to overdo or defeat itself by emotional excitement or rash impulses.

Gland Disorders Few in Children

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Recently I delivered a homily on the value of old-fashioned remedies, as against trying out some bang new drug or electrical treatment that is still in the experimental stage.

There was a remark I think of George Ade's about a boy who was dropped on his head when very young and afterwards believed everything he read in the Sunday papers. That seems to be the attitude of the public now that every new mold or dye or concentrated vitamin is written up as a positive cure for incurable diseases.

Especially is this true of parents about endocrine products. These extracts of the ductless glands have been publicized widely as being able to change the whole aspect of the body, mind and soul. Pictures in magazines and books show dwarfs turned into growing children of normal height, fat boys turned into rugged individualists, morons into geniuses, and moral delinquents into pulpit orators—all by some hypodermic injections of a little clear fluid pressed from a pituitary, a placenta, or an adrenal cortex.

Few True Cases

Any parent whose child doesn't look like Gainsborough's BLUE BOY, or conform to the exact figure for height, weight, fat pads, and hair distribution is rushed to the endocrinologist's office.

Now I find an article by a conservative endocrinologist, Dr. Richard Wagner, of Boston, who attends a large clinic and hospital where all kinds of these children with alleged developmental defects are brought, so that he certainly has experience. And he, after years of study, has decided that only a few, a relatively small proportion are really due to deficiency or disorder of the ductless glands.

Most of them are imitations of endocrine types—accentuations of physiologic phases of development—transitory states, temporary accentuations of constitutional and familial factors.

In short, in his treatment of this great group Dr. Wagner believes strongly in the use of a very old-fashioned method of treatment—

Radio Programs

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Frequency modulation is expected to be a "must" element in the home radio set manufactured after the war, "not so much on its proven use, as on the fact that it has had one of the outstanding promotions of the decade," says Walter Evans, radio executive and engineer. He is vice president of Westinghouse.

"THAT KEITH WOMAN"

by PHYLLIS MOORE GALLAGHER

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

Suddenly my spine went rigid. I heard Peter's double knock on the door; then his feet running swiftly, almost silently, along the corridor. Quickly I ducked into the bath and opened off Marvin's and Elsie's room, closed and locked the door. I saw there was another door which led to an unoccupied room—the yellow room—and I unlocked that door, too. I started up the water in the lavatory, began to splash and do things noisily with towels.

It was a charming bath, an ornate affair with green and white tiles and concealed lighting above the tiled frieze of merry mermaids, admired the sunken tub which seemed almost big enough to float in. I flicked them off, flicked them on again—and stood looking at my mouth open in surprise. There was something missing.

The lights were spaced evenly, each bulb about two feet from its neighbor. However, just over the dressing table, which was skirted in green waterproof taffeta and covered with all sorts of cosmetics, undoubtedly Elsie Eustace's possessions—I noticed a break in the pattern of lights. Curious, I climbed up on the dressing-table stool, peered over the shelfed frieze with its merry mermaids. My heart stopped suddenly; then began to race. At last I'd found something!

Climbing down, I had a little metal tube in my hand. The leg and on its face claimed that this cream, applied so-and-so, would hide blemishes, pimples, birthmarks and what-have-you. Would it hide teeth bites? Was it now hiding such tell-tale marks on Marvin's throat? Had it been Marvin who attacked me on the grounds right after Pamela's dinner? It could have been. . . . While I was upstairs getting my cape and looking around for my evening bag, he could have slipped out of the house, perhaps even up to the hotel, to make that phone call to Pam. . . . The more I thought about it, the more certain I was that this was so.

As far as I knew there had been little checking done on that period of time when everyone was moving from the dining-room into the drawing-room for coffee. . . . while I was upstairs looking around for my evening bag! All at once, I recalled exactly where I had left my evening bag the day of Sandra's debut: In the yellow bedroom adjoining this bath.

I wondered if the bag were still in there and knew, instinctively, that it was not. That missing bag explained one thing which had puzzled me. The murderer hadn't climbed into my room through the window from the balcony the night I was attacked. Detective Hornblower was wrong in thinking that. The murderer—man or woman—had found my bag, had taken the keys to my apartment out of it, and used them! I always keep an identification tag on my key-ring. I turned off the splashing water and, for a long moment, stood staring down at the tiny tube in my hand. Was it loaded with fingerprints? Had it been carefully wiped before being thrown up beyond the shelfed frieze? Someone must have been in a great hurry to dispose of it like that. . . .

If the metal tube hadn't jarred the bulb and put it out of commission, I doubt if anyone would have thought of looking up there for anything.

Wrapping the tube in my handkerchief, I held it gingerly so as not to blur any possible fingerprints.

Then another thought struck me. Almost anyone could have tossed that tube up there. Just because this was the Eustace's bath, it did not mean the tube belonged to Marvin or Elsie. While Hornblower was questioning us this morning, I had seen almost all the suspects go upstairs one time or another. Yes, it could have been anyone—and I was right back where I'd started.

"Letty, have you died in there?"

It was Peter Gibson outside the bathroom door. I turned the key in the lock, stepped out into the unoccupied guest-room, and started to tell him what I'd discovered.

"Not here, dear! The Eustaces may come up," Peter said, and took my hand.

Together we hurried out of the yellow room, made our way to the small morning room over the southwest corner of the ballroom. I promptly unfolded my handkerchief and exhibited my find to Peter who immediately shut the door and bundled the tube up in the handkerchief again. Then he exploded in choked tones.

"Good Lord, Letty! Haven't you any sense at all? This is a murder case. Murder! I don't know how important that tube is. But suppose it is a clue and the assassin learns you have it? . . ."

"Who was it came upstairs a few minutes ago?" I interrupted.

Peter pushed me down on the sofa in front of the window, and took a place beside me.

"It was the Countess and Luke Cramer," he answered. "They came up to lie down—separately, of course."

"Did they come up together?"

"Yes."

Then we discussed the tube of blemish cream, and I declared: "I'm on a fresh hunt for teeth bites now. I didn't know before there was a cream which could hide such marks. And while I'm on that subject, Peter, just how did you get those marks on your throat?"

Color swept into his face.

"Well, that night . . . the night Pamela Keith was murdered. . . . I began. 'I had a date. And you must remember, Letty, I made that date before I met you.'"

"Stellita Carlisle?" I said, remembering what Clem Barkley had told me.

"For heaven's sake!" exploded Peter. "Can you read minds?"

"No, I can't and I don't," I said. "Clem Barkley told me about you and Stellita Carlisle. She was your—alibi."

"Oh," murmured Peter. "So you can't read minds. Well, thank the Lord for that!"

"Go on with your story."

"Well, I had a date with Stellita. She met me in the cocktail lounge at the hotel. We drank and talked till nearly eleven fifteen, then I took her home. In the taxi. . . . I don't know just how to describe this. . . . You see, I was pretty keen about Stellita—once. She was the first mature woman I'd ever run around with and I—well, I got

How much does it cost to bomb Berlin ?

SUPPOSE, in the dusk of an English evening, 1,000 huge bombers soar over the Channel and head for Berlin.

By the time those planes return to England, their motors will have consumed 2,400,000 gallons of gasoline!

The cost . . . of the gasoline ALONE . . . will be more than $380,000.

To pay for the gasoline used on ONE such raid, 96,000 Americans would have to invest at least 10 percent of their next pay check in War Bonds!

You get a big kick out of reading about those 1,000-plane raids. You know that such raids, if repeated often enough, will soften up the Axis. But . . .

What are YOU doing to help pay the cost of those raids? (In addition to the gasoline they use, it costs Uncle Sam TWO HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS to build 1,000 4-motored bombers . . . plus the cost of training the 10,000 men who make up their crews!)

Modern war is expensive business . . . its cost runs into fantastic figures. 30,000,000 American wage earners are now putting an average of 10 percent of each pay check into War Bonds every pay day . . . but still it isn't enough!

Our air raids on the Axis are increasing in frequency and intensity. When land operations really get going, the cost will be staggering.

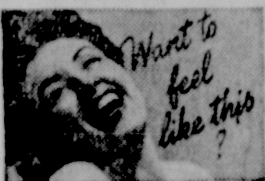

More and more Americans must join the Pay-Roll Savings Plan . . . more than those already in the Pay-Roll Savings Plan must begin to jack up their War Bond purchases . . . must start to invest more than 10 percent!

Remember . . . War Bonds are the finest investment in the world today. You get back $4 for every $3 you invest. And . . . the more War Bonds you buy now, the quicker the Axis will be licked . . . and the less the war will cost in the long run.

Think it over. And every time you're tempted to put a nickel in something you don't absolutely need—put it in War Bonds instead!

KEEP ON BACKING THE ATTACK!

Miss Snelvel Is Bride In Church Rites

At 4 p. m. Saturday at the Christian church, the marriage of Miss Bernice Snelvel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snelvel of the Lisbon rd., to Matt Melitschka, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Melitschka, of Arch st., was solemnized. Rev. C. F. Evans officiated.

The single ring ceremony was performed before an altar banked with palms and lighted with tapers in branched candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a broad-collared chiffon floor length gown. Her fingertip length veil was attached to a Juliet cap and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses mingled with stevia. Her only jewels were a cameo and gold necklace which her grandfather, Lewis, gave to her grandmother on their wedding day.

Miss Lois Jones of Sebring served as her matron-of-honor in a powder blue floor length gown with silver accessories and carried a bouquet of roses, daisies and ferns with a bandeau of matching flowers in her hair.

John Melitschka served his brother as best man.

The bride's mother was attired in an orchid tailored suit with matching accessories and Mrs. Melitschka in moss green. Both wore corsages of yellow roses.

Marty Polder and John Drotloff served as ushers.

A reception following the ceremony was held at the bride's home, attended by 60 relatives and friends.

The bride's table, covered with a white satin cloth and outlined with fern and stevia, featured a four-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. A background of lighted tapers in a branched crystal candelabra and tapers in silver holders on either side of the centerpiece completed the attractive decorations.

At a small table, covered with a flit cloth made by the groom's mother, was a dark cake, topped with the traditional wedding couple, with yellow tapers in oak candle holders on either side.

Following a short trip the couple will make their home at 467 Sharp st.

Mrs. Melitschka attended Salem schools and graduated from Gettysburg High school. She was formerly employed by the R. S. McCulloch Co.

Mr. Melitschka, a graduate of Salem High school, is employed by the Salem Engineering Co.

SMART MODELS CREATED BY INGENIOUS DESIGNERS

The ingenuity of American fashion designers is shown by the smart models seen on every hand. The three examples shown above are typical of this cleverness. At the left is an all-occasion crepe rayon dress with flattering drape in the bodice that falls from the shoulder seams, and front fullness in the skirt. Heavy link chains on a dressing gown worn by Orson Welles in "Jane Eyre" inspired Nettie Rosenstein to create this gown with its decorative chains. At the center is a distinctive suit converted from a worn Persian lamb coat by Radio Actress Adele Ronson. The fingertip coat has the new collarless theme, and fastens with ornamental gold clips. Six bands of the fur form the face on the pleats of the black broadcloth skirt, and the muff purse was made from the remaining pieces of the fur. The coat, right, is made of Australian opossum and treated so as to be indistinguishable from sheared beaver. It sells at budget cost. It is tailored in three-quarter tuxedo swagger, with military shoulders and wide, turned-back cuffs.

FARMERS' INCOMES REACH NEW HIGHS

Problems Confronting Agriculture Also Surmounted in 1943

By WILLIAM G. FERRIS
AP Market Editor

CHICAGO—Down on the farm this year they are pocketing the largest income in history despite equipment shortages, manpower problems, price controls and such interferences as spring floods.

All the problems confronting agriculture were surmounted with record production and the reward was ringing in farm pockets.

Cash farm income for the full year 1943, including government payments, is estimated by the Department of Agriculture at close to $20,000,000,000. This compares with $16,000,000,000 in 1942 and $11,750,000,000 in 1941.

The outlook for 1944 is for a further expansion, even if crops merely equal those of 1943.

Factors Behind Income Rise

Two factors combined to produce the record income: Higher prices and greater production. Prices for the year, despite numerous ceilings, averaged about 20 per cent higher than last year. Farm production was the heaviest in history.

All sections of the country shared war prosperity. Whether the farmer produced wheat or eggs or fresh vegetables, the result was the same—more money.

Especially heavy gains were shown in some of the South Atlantic states, largely because more broilers were marketed. The extremely heavy production of livestock was a major factor in the Middle West.

Percentage increases in income during the first eight months of 1943, as compared with the preceding year, for some major farm products were:

Food grains, 27 per cent; feed grain and hay, 29 per cent; cotton and cottonseed, 41 per cent; oil bearing crops, 124 per cent; fruits and nuts, 35 per cent; fresh vegetables, 44 per cent; meat animals, 27 per cent; dairy products, 22 per cent, and poultry and eggs, 52 per cent.

Outlook For 1944

The next 12 months, according to the Agriculture department, volume of farm production is likely to be maintained and may be moderately increased.

"With prices of many farm products supported at approximately present levels," the department said, "some advances in the average of prices for the year (1944) are to be expected. These higher average prices will result in some increase in cash income even if the volume of production were not increased."

Air Transport Command's 600-Mile Aerial Supply Route to China Subs for Burma Road

By PRESTON GROVER

AN AMERICAN AIR BASE IN NORTHEAST INDIA, Jan. 10.—The Air Transport Command has been largely responsible for developing the new 600-mile aerial supply route to China to the point where it is a worthy substitute for the Burma road.

Scores of fliers have been downed in the Burma jungles while helping establish the new supply route. Some have died and some have been rescued after incredible hardships, but due to the secrecy with which the ATC, for obvious reasons, surrounded the operations, the story of their heroism has been a closed book. Now the route is only established some of the tale can be told.

The story of these fliers is one of split second bravery that demands courage and nerve that must be sustained for hours or days and sometimes weeks.

Sometimes the planes do not make it and the crews must bail out. Sometimes Japanese pursuit planes dive from the Himalayan clouds to down a lumbering transport.

Bailed Out At 10,000 Feet

Take the case of the plane piloted by 1st Lt. Ted R. Carmack, of Brewton, Ala. A Japanese Zero attacked his plane loaded with gasoline and all the crew were forced to jump at 10,000 feet. One landed in a native village and sent out a radio which brought the others into the village within two hours.

They began a 35-day hike. On the 17th day they met an American missionary, Allen B. Cook, who turned them in the right direction. They reached an American Air base in China Dec. 2.

When a plane reports trouble or fails to arrive at its destination a search plane takes to the air. The search continues until the party is found or the case is considered hopeless.

When lost fliers are found a series of messages are dropped along with instructions how to answer with a strip of parachute cloth.

One of the messages dropped is "do you need a doctor?"

The first medical officer to parachute on a mercy mission in Burma was Col. Don Flickinger of Long Beach, Calif., an ATC wing surgeon. He dropped into the jungle to mend the broken leg of Staff Sgt. Walter R. Oswald, Ansonia, Ohio.

Experience For Oshien

The bitterest experience was that of Pvt. James Vaffis of Fremont, O., a radio operator. He was in a plane which crashed last September before any of its occupants could parachute. Three others were killed.

Vaffis doesn't know what happened, but Rescuers found him badly burned and thought he must have lain in a pool of gasoline.

Natives rigged up a litter and for nine days carried him to a British outpost from which a signal for help was sent. To the rescue went Maj. Ralph L. Downup, Salt Lake City; Lt. Ormond Julian and Sgt. Dominic Apatacino, medical assistant.

On the way to aid Vaffis, Julian developed bronchitis and after their arrival at the British base Downup and Apatacino developed malaria. Although ill, they began treating Vaffis.

Blood plasma was dropped from a plane. This helped, but not enough. A call was sent for live blood. Blood was taken from soldiers donors at the base, rushed to the scene and dropped by parachute.

Japanese fighters began attacking two American transports in the vicinity. Both crashed and the crew of one was saved. Vaffis ultimately recovered sufficiently to be taken to an American hospital in India.

Capt. John L. Porter of Tiffin, O., was the pilot in chief of the air rescue service in its early days, but early in December he failed to return from a routine rescue mission. Sgt. Henry W. Neibler of Columbus, O., also is missing.

PHYSICIANS TO PROBE ARMY PHYSICAL STANDARDS

PHYSICAL REQUIREMENTS for admission to the United States armed forces will come under the scrutiny of this board of five prominent physicians appointed by President Roosevelt. They will determine whether the standards might be lowered still farther to admit some men now in 4-F and lower the number of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers to be drafted. Many Taxpayers Due For Shock March 15, Chiefly New Workers

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON.—Thousands of wage-earners are going to get the shock of their lives when they find out the size of their federal income tax due this March 15.

They are the folks who had no taxable income in 1942 but were on a payroll during most of 1943. Those hardest hit will be mostly single persons (with no dependents) who were unemployed in 1942 but who obtained jobs early in 1943.

For example, a girl stenographer, single and no dependents, with a salary of $1,500 in 1943, will owe Uncle Sam approximately $85 on March 15 if she had no tax to pay on 1942 income. That represents almost three weeks' wages for her. If her salary was $2,500, she will owe the government $171, about 3 1/2 weeks' pay.

Changeover Hurts

What puts her and many other new income receivers in a tight spot, temporarily at least, is the business of changing over from the old system of paying your taxes a year after receiving income, to the new method of paying as you earn. It's right costly for those who have to catch up.

Here's why it works that way: When a taxpayer figures how much he or she still owes on 1943 taxes this March, he first computes the amount of his Victory and Income taxes for 1943. From that figure he is allowed to subtract the amount he has already paid in withholding taxes plus payments last year (usually March 15 and June 15) on his 1942 tax.

Now, unless his 1943 income increased considerably over his 1942 income, crediting the payments on 1942 tax substantially reduces the sum he will owe on March 15. But if he didn't have any 1942 tax, he obviously is minus the credit.

The combined withholding of income and Victory taxes from wages didn't begin until July 1 last. Consequently the only tax paid on 1943 income during the first half the year was the Victory tax. The taxpayer still owes income tax for January to July, and that's where the 1942 tax payments, if any, come in to reduce his March 15 bill.

Victory Wages Cause Worry

Internal Revenue Bureau officials are frankly worried about the situation. There are thousands of war plants workers, government and store clerks who made their debut as wage earners in the income tax brackets last year. A large proportion are young women who know little or nothing about taxes.

If they filed a tax estimate and paid estimated taxes last September 15 and December 15, they probably "caught up" pretty well with taxes owed for the first half of the year. But the filing of an estimate was compulsory only for those single wage-earners with incomes exceeding $2,700 and married wage-earners with income exceeding $3,500. Since the tendency of taxpayers, particularly new ones, is to make out a more or less complicated return unless compulsory, the chances are few of the lower income workers filed an estimate and paid a tax.

The government has deferred payments in special hardship cases, but it will be difficult for many single persons without dependents to present a strong hardship plea. A lot of them had better begin tucking away dollars to cushion the March 15 blow.

Premonition Correct

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 10.—Mrs. Emmet Galloway said the thought that something was wrong at home kept troubling her last night as she watched a motion picture. She left in mid-film, found her two children and a neighbor's son lying on the living room floor, overcome with furnace fumes.

Hospital attendants said all would recover.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

—by Hal Boyle—

AN AMERICAN BOMBER BASE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, Jan. 10.—V-mail is widely used by the troops because it is supposed to get to its destination more quickly, but it is also one of the most cursed inventions of the war.

Soldiers complain because the V-mail letter form is too brief and impersonal.

"It just does not seem like a letter from home,"

It also results in some funny complications.

For example, almost every day the wife of Staff Sgt. Robert E. Smith of St. Louis, writes him three V-mail letters, continuing the news from page to page. Sometimes all the pages do not arrive on the same day.

That is why the sergeant at present is sorely puzzled. Page two of his wife's most recent letter begins "as I was telling you in page number one, I insured my left arm for $20."

Unfortunately, page number one has not arrived.

Like A Serial Story

"I can hardly wait until it gets here," Smith said. "I can't figure why she wanted to insure her arm for $20 anyway. I should think she would insure her right arm. She's right handed."

This is the second time the sergeant's letters from home have had a continued in the next chapter scene. A page from one of his wife's previous letters ended "so I wobbled down the hospital corridor from one side to another. Then I fainted."

The sergeant, a short, jolly soldier who was city editor of the Garnett, Kan. Review before he entered the army, was really alarmed. For days he worried.

Commercial butter was first made in the U. S. in 1856 in Orange county, N. Y.

Then the next page turned up and he learned that his wife had been acting as a Nurse's Aide and had been momentarily ill while assisting during an operation.

"You don't need to read magazine serials as long as you are getting V-mail," said the sergeant. "There's suspense in every letter."

Pre-Induction Period of 21 Days Assured Draftees

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Under the new system of pre-induction physical examinations, each registrant who passes the physical is guaranteed at least 21 days of civilian life after his draft board notifies him he passed. Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today.

Friday's announcement indicated the 21-day interval dated from the examination itself. Since it takes several days to determine results of blood tests, this would have meant some registrants would have had less than three weeks.

Hershey said at a press conference that draft boards felt about 300,000 behind their quotas during the last quarter of 1943, and that because of the necessity of making up deficiencies, "we are caught in a very difficult situation" in changing over to the system of pre-induction physicals.

Hershey said draft boards will give registrants five days' notice before they must report for pre-induction physicals.

TROOP ROTATION PLAN IS ADOPTED

Soldiers In Alaska, Caribbean Areas Will Be Able To Return Home

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The War department has adopted a troop rotation policy "which should assure" that by mid-1944 all soldiers in Alaska and the Caribbean areas with two years overseas service will be returned to the United States, Sen. Reynolds (D-NC), said today.

Reynolds, chairman of the senate military affairs committee, reported the rotation outlook in other areas as follows:

North Africa: Plans have been instituted to return monthly a limited number of men with more than 18 months' overseas service.

South and Southwest Pacific: "It is anticipated that the present difficulties in returning men from these quarters of operation will be overcome in the spring of 1944, and that a system will be put into effect to return a certain number of men to the United States."

Europe: "Up to the present time men in this theater, other than those in the air crews, have not been subject to combat fatigue and stress, and the climatic conditions do not necessitate a change, and therefore no system has been established for this theater for the rotation of troops to the homeland. As the situation changes in the European theater a system will be put into effect."

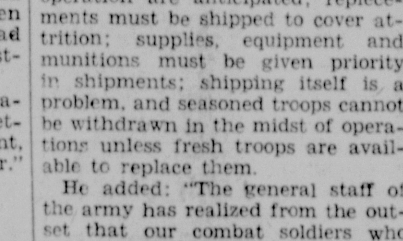

Air Crew Personnel: "The rotation of air crew personnel serving overseas in all theaters has been established and is functioning satisfactorily."

Reynolds' report was prompted by an inquiry by Sen. Connally (D-Tex.).

Reynolds said the problem had been given constant study by the general staff but he pointed out there are many difficulties to be overcome. For instance, he said, additional troops are needed in all overseas theaters; no wheatears of operation are anticipated; replacements must be shipped to cover attrition; supplies, equipment and munitions must be given priority in shipments; shipping itself is a problem, and seasoned troops cannot be withdrawn in the midst of operations unless fresh troops are available to replace them.

He added: "The general staff of the army has realized from the outset that our combat soldiers who might experience combat fatigue and stress should be returned home as soon as possible, and with that in mind have been constantly planning for the release of such men when it is possible to replace them."

Doctor Stresses Early Eye Care

Physical examinations of young men drafted for military service has revealed the fact that thousands otherwise perfectly fit have below normal vision.

It is also true that a big percentage of these cases could have been prevented if they had given their eyes attention when only children. Eye strain gradually develops with many children and to be sure your children are not straining their eyes in their daily school work it would be good judgment to have their eyes examined at least once each year by a competent optician.

Seven Of Nine Games On 1944 Grid Card At Reilly Field

QUAKERS TO PLAY ONLY 2 GAMES AWAY

Manager Cope Adds Girard To Schedule; All Will Be Night Contests

There will be lots of football at Reilly field in 1944—at least that is the picture presented by the new schedule just released by Faculty Manager Fred Cope of Salem High—a schedule that has the Quakers at home in seven of their nine contests, and adds Girard to the card played last season.

The only two out-of-town games are with Ravenna and Girard and the entire schedule will be played at night. Cope has found attendance much better at night games.

For the opening game the Sebring Trojans will again visit Reilly field, this time on Sept. 15. The following week the Quakers will travel to Ravenna to meet Harry Gilcrest's Ravens. Then East Palestine will return the visit the Quakers paid them last fall before Salem squares off to meet the always-difficult gridgers from Leontonia the following week.

Liverpool Here Nov. 3
Games are then scheduled with Wellsville and Struthers at Reilly field before the locals take to the road for the second time to meet the Girard Indians.

After their trip to Girard the Quakers will prepare for their big game of the year, East Liverpool, the only team to defeat Ben Barrett's eleven in 1943, will come to Reilly field Nov. 3 for another Friday night game. The Quakers close against the Lisbon Blue Devils on Nov. 10.

After the opening on Sept. 15 Salem will have a game every week until the close of the season, with no breathing spells after the first whistle. This fact will force Coach Barrett to have numerous replacements ready, as there will be no periods of rest to give regulars recuperating time.

For the second year Alliance will not appear on the Quaker slate. Cope reports that arrangements could not be made for a suitable date. The past season was the first in some thirty years that Salem and Alliance have not engaged in a football clash.

Working On '45 Schedule
Cope has gone to extensive efforts to secure a varied and lengthy card for local gridiron fans in 1944 and reports that an equally full home schedule will be in store for 1945. Already the faculty manager has booked six home games for '45 and has prospects of getting more. Several of the teams on the Quaker schedule regularly appear at Reilly field without asking the Quakers to visit their home towns. This is due to the good attendance in Salem, a fact that makes it more lucrative for other schools to appear here than on their own fields.

The complete schedule follows:
Sept. 15—Sebring.
Sept. 22—At Ravenna.
Sept. 29—East Palestine.
Oct. 6—Leontonia.
Oct. 13—Wellsville.
Oct. 20—Struthers.
Oct. 26—At Girard.
Nov. 3—East Palestine.
Nov. 10—Lisbon.

Big Leagues Encourage Cities To Form Class D Ball Circuit

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Jan. 10.—Eight major league clubs, five from the National league and three from the American, were believed ready today to back clubs in the proposed Ohio State Class D baseball league this year should the circuit head upstream against the war-time trend and decide to operate after a two-year lapse.

Springfield, Middletown, Lima, Zanesville and Newark representatives at a meeting here yesterday announced they were either ready to go, or would be as soon as a few arrangements were completed, and President Joe Donnelly said he could have three others—possibly Fremont, Mansfield and Marion—in the fold within a couple of weeks.

The representatives will meet here Jan. 23 to complete organization of the circuit, first to reorganize following the demise of 32 minor leagues due to man-power shortages and other war problems. Springfield definitely was operating under a working agreement with the New York Giants, who sent Secretary Jack Schwarz, Carl Hubbell, Frank Rickey and Marty Purrell to the meeting.

Middletown was being looked over today by George Torporer of the Boston Red Sox, who said an affiliation probably would be made there. The bespectacled ex-shortstop went to Middletown following yesterday's session.

Farm Arrangement
Lima was dickering with the St. Louis Browns, represented by Ed Gilliland, president of the Toledo club of the American association; Zanesville practically completed a farm set-up with Branch Rickey, Jr., of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Newark had the backing of the Cincinnati Reds, represented by Bill McCorry, who recently replaced Gabe Paul, and Lee Allen.

On the sidelines, waiting for new clubs to be added so they could do a bit of dickering, were Jack McCallister of the Boston Braves; Fred Hunter of the St. Louis Cardinals, and "Buz" Wetzel of the Cleveland Indians. Donnelly planned a swing around the circuit the next two weeks, and he'll stop off at Mansfield, Marion and Fremont in an attempt to interest the baseball-minded there. He said he was certain he could line up three more teams, but that unless they could guarantee a strong club, he was planning to launch the rejuvenated circuit as a six-club affair.

Branch Rickey, Jr., said Dayton, where the Brooklyn operated a farm in the Mid-Atlantic loop before the league succumbed to the war, might be counted as "an ace in the hole" should an eighth member be desired.

Donnelly said the league probably would play all games at night, except on Sunday, and that all travel would be by regularly-scheduled buses.

Sammy Byrd Drops Behind In Los Angeles Golf Open
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—Your guess on the winner of the $12,500 Los Angeles Open golf championship is as good as the next fellow, now that Sammy Byrd has blown up after leading the pack for two days and found himself tied in third place with Jug McSpaden of Philadelphia and Olin Dutra of Los Angeles.

Ahead of him were Leonard Dodson of La Jolla, Calif., and Atlanta's airline pilot, Johnny Bulla, who were tied for the lead with 54-hole cards of 210, and Byron Nelson of Toledo and Craig Wood, who had 211's.

Byrd slipped to a 75 yesterday but everyone agreed he had as good a chance as any to stage another sub-par round today and take the first prize of $4,375 in War bonds.

AS TOLD BY THE CONSERVATION DIVISION

Two 6-0 games and a healthy 2763 series were not quite good enough for Zimmerman's to win against a Warren team on the Warren alleys yesterday. Warren posted a total of 2796, winning by 33 pins.

Johnny Meier put games of 189, 193, 234 together for a 616 total and Clem Knowles posted 609 on games of 167, 210, 232. Mike Hutter had one game of 224.

Venette of Warren was high with 229, 201, 189-619. Salem got off to a poor start but was out in front the next two games.

In a special match on the Salem Bowling Center alleys, Sponseller and T. Motors of Canton, 3951 to 2997. Each team used six men. Britza of Canton had a 254 game.

OHIO CONFERENCE OFFERS 9 CONTESTS

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Jan. 10.—Ohio's college and service basketball squads face a hefty 34-game schedule this week, nine of the frays being in the Ohio Conference championship race and eight against out-of-state opponents.

Miami's mighty Redskins, pacing the pack with five conquests in a row, meet only Toledo university's undermanned Rockets, while second-place Otterbein tangles only with Wooster's twice-defeated Scots.

Kenyon, where Eppa Rixey, Jr., six-foot six-inch son of the former Cincinnati Red pitcher, holds forth at center, is facing personnel difficulties and may drop out of the race. The Lords squad was slashed to six over the weekend at Bill Herberger and Jim Devens enrolled in the Air Force.

Smith previously was ruled ineligible. The squad has lost both its stars, but has a chance to win Tuesday night against twice-defeated Ashland.

May Be 15th To Quit
Should Kenyon retire, it would be the 15th to give up since last season, and would leave only 23 colleges in the scrap.

The week's slate:
Monday: Cincinnati at Wilmington. Wright field at Toledo.
Tuesday: Navy recruiting at Lockbourne. Oberlin at Akron. Coast Guard at Toledo Navy. 351st aviation at Wilberforce. Camp Perry at Erie proving. Muskingum at Rio Grande. Fort Hayes at Naval Delivery. Kenyon at Ashland.
Wednesday: Bowling Green at Patterson Field. Wittenberg at Earlham. Denison at Ohio North-ern.
Thursday: Wooster at Otterbein. Toledo Navy at Dearborn Navy. West Virginia State at Wilberforce.
Friday: Capital at Lockbourne. Indiana at Ohio State. West Virginia State at Wilberforce. Ohio Wesleyan at Fort Hayes. Bowling Green at Grosse Ile. Curtis Wright at OSU Reserves.
Saturday: Fort Hayes at Wooster. Cincinnati at Ohio U. Oberlin at Denison. Muskingum at Ohio Wesleyan. Baldwin-Wallace at Case. Indiana at Ohio State. Ohio Northern at Wittenberg. Curtis Wright at Lockbourne. Toledo at Miami. Camp Perry at Cleveland Naval. Ashland at Bluffton.

Dolly Stark, the former umpire, has taken a job as sports broadcaster for a New York station.

WHO WON?
Tarzan Taylor, former Marquette U. line coach, tells this one about the Marquette team that kept drawing penalty after penalty for taking too much time in the huddles. Finally Taylor yanked out the quarterback and, when the kid reached the bench, asked him the reason for the delays. "Why coach," the quarterback explained, "I was listening to the scores being announced over the loud speaker."

Farmer Foresees End of War on Easter Sunday
BALDWIN, Ga. — Virgil Smith, the farmer who predicted the correct date for the end of World War I, says that the present war will end on Easter Sunday, 1944. Smith, who makes his predictions as a result of dreams, said three months before the end of the first World War that it would be over on Nov. 11, 1918. He even predicted correctly just how peace terms would be arranged. Smith also made another prediction which came true—that Italy would be out of the present war by the middle of October, 1942, and would immediately declare war on Germany.

One battle won does not win a war. We've got tougher times ahead.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Leo Durocher, bound overseas on a USO tour, will miss the Dodgers' first two weeks of training at Bear Mountain, but in a quiet place like that, the players probably can hear him anyway. Dick Farman, the Redskins' All League guard, will be able to play football again next season as the result of a recent operation to relieve the pressure on a nerve. Reports that Ralph Brizzolara will suggest a similar operation on George Marshall's nerve haven't been confirmed.

REAL ESTATE

HERE IS A 50-ACRE FARM PRICED LESS THAN THE PRICE OF A GOOD CITY HOME!

This farm is located about 1 1/2 miles from Leetonia on the Leetonia-Lisbon paved road. Children hauled to school. Fruit for home use. Is improved with good 9-room house with gas, electric, and new furnace. There is a room could be used for bathroom but fixtures are not installed. Good high basement under the entire house. House sets back from the road about 200 feet which makes excellent setting for the buildings. Very good bank barn with stone wall, slate roof.

On account to the owner's wife's death, he is forced to sell and has given me a very low price of $6,000. At this price I can include what equipment he has. There is probably five or six tons of hay, walking plow, wagon and some other small tools. Now, do not put off looking at this farm as it is a rare bargain and will soon be in the hands of a new owner.

Rules Congressmen May Not Serve In U. S. Armed Forces

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—President Roosevelt instructed the secretaries of War and Navy today that members of Congress "may not serve in the active components of the armed services."

Mr. Roosevelt said in a formal statement that Attorney General Biddle had advised him the constitution forbids simultaneous service in the armed forces and in Congress.

"Aside from the constitutional barrier," the President said, "there is also the problem of evaluation of service to the nation. One of the greatest strengths of our democracy in the time of crisis is a strong, virile congress, to meet the problems arising from the demands of total war."

"The election of these congressmen after war was declared, showed that their constituents believed that their service as legislators was their paramount contribution to the war effort."

Mr. Roosevelt said the desire of legislators to serve their country under arms was understandable and appreciated, and "does them honor." Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said that in issuing his instructions to Secretary of the War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Knox the President was closing out a matter that had been dragging along for some time. A number of members of Congress have gone into uniform, although some have given up their seats to do so.

Apparently only two representatives were immediately affected by the President's order. Rep. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) recently volunteered and no word on furlough with orders to report at Camp Shelby, Miss., Jan. 19. Gore, younger member of Tennessee's delegation is 36, married and has one child.

"All I can do is what I am ordered," Gore said.

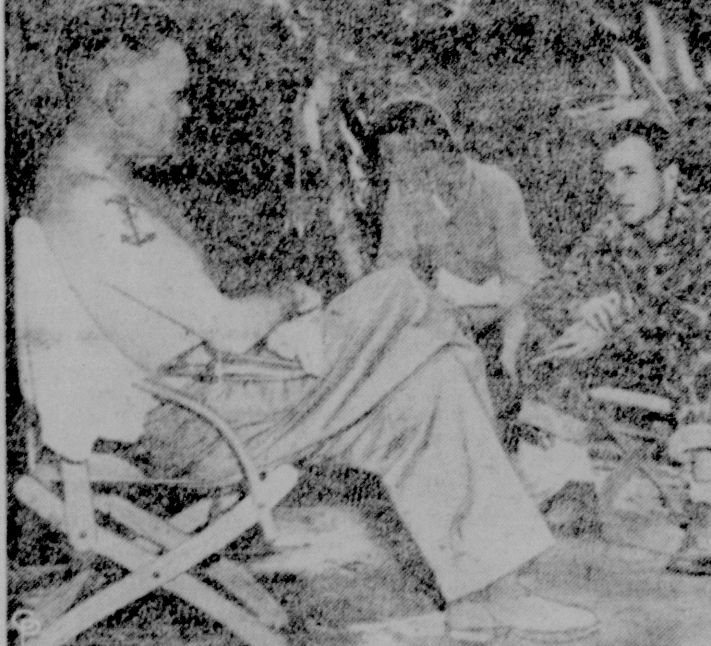

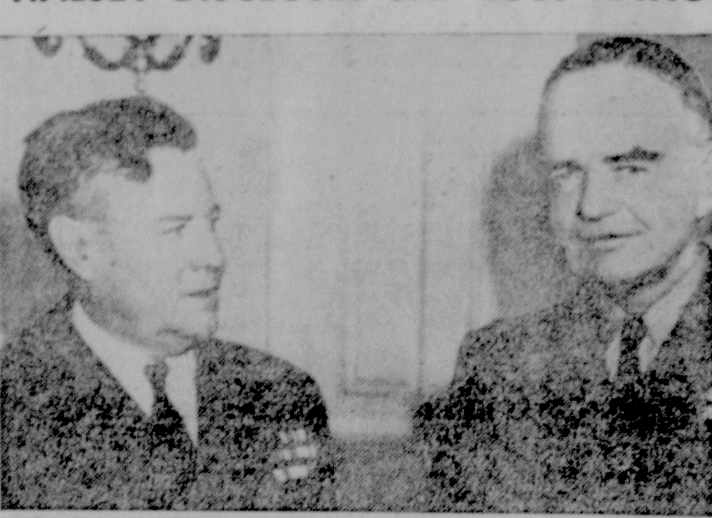

The other member is Rep. Jackson (D-Wash.), a private in a tank destroyer unit stationed at Fort McClellan, Ala.

Gen. Paget In Cairo

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Gen. Sir Bernard Paget, newly-named Allied commander in chief in the Middle East, has arrived at Cairo to take up his command. It was announced officially today.

Gen. Paget, who directed the withdrawal of British forces from Norway, formerly was commander in chief of the British home forces.

line for German troops in Southern Russia.

Described As Rout
(Stockholm dispatches describing the German retreat as "almost chaotic," quoted Berlin military spokesmen as admitting their armies were fleeing during a desperate battle upon which "the outcome of the whole war depends.")

The Germans also faced disaster west of the Dnieper river as the First and Second Ukrainian Red armies narrowed the jaws of a possible trap to less than 75 miles.

On their entire front yesterday the armies of Gen. N. I. Kholat, Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev, swept up 110 more towns and hamlets, killed 2,300 Germans in two actions alone, and captured huge stores of war material, a Soviet communiqué announced.

The Russians took Polonnoe, just inside Kamenska Podolsk province bordering Rumania, in an advance of 30 miles west of Zhitomir.

The first army's southern drive, which was reported making the most progress, took some of Gen. Vatutin's forces through Buki, while other units moved up the west bank of the Dnieper south of Kiev, capturing Kagarlyk, 12 miles southwest of Rzhishchev.

Konev's second army encountered stiff resistance around recaptured Kirovograd, but occupation of Alexandrovka, 35 miles to the north, helped straighten the front.

May Revoke Permits
CLEVELAND, Jan. 10.—C. R. Allen of the Office of Defense Transportation warned taxicab companies and drivers their certificates of war necessity would be revoked for refusal to make comparatively long hauls in hopes of making more short trips and consequently more tips.

Blaze Kills Five Men
RICHMOND, Calif., Jan. 10.—At least five men, all burned beyond recognition, were killed and seven injured in a fire that destroyed a shipyard workers dormitory today.

Medal Man

BOUGAINVILLE hero, Major J. Zeamer, Jr., Orange, N. J., a U. S. Army Air Force pilot, was given a Congressional medal of honor by Gen. H. H. Arnold during ceremonies in Washington's Pentagon. Major Zeamer, although wounded, piloted his Fortress over enemy areas on an important mapping job and, attacked by enemy fighters, shot one down with an improvised machine gun. (International)

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

They're wrong, the vast difficulties of invasion will be lessened. This matching military wits is a matter of life or death for thousands of American, British and French soldiers who soon are to undertake this great adventure into the unknown.

THE GERMANS, fishing anxiously for information, say the Allies have mapped out a five-week bombing program to pave the way for the invasion of western Europe. This would set the date about the middle of February. Well, if the Nazis come as close as that to the zero hour, they will be lucky.

Anyhow, Hitler is taking no chances but is rushing preparations for defense. Marshal Rommel, in whose strong hands the Fuehrer has placed the fate of these occupied territories, professes satisfaction with the situation. One doubts that he is as optimistic as he talks, but we should be crazy not to recognize that the Germans have constructed a powerful and highly dangerous machine to ward off invasion. We are soon to get the full significance of British Prime Minister Churchill's promise long ago of sweat, blood and tears. Let's paste that in our hats.

To prepare for this crisis the Anglo-American air forces daily are intensifying their bombing of German war resources and the so-called invasion coastal zones. It's one of the decisive operations of the global conflict—the greatest air attack the world has known.

As our high command has said, the purpose of this bombing is (1) to destroy Nazi resources, and (2) finally to clear the way for our amphibious forces to swarm ashore. The bombing of war industries will continue on the crescendo until Germany has been rendered sufficiently impotent to warrant risking the lives of hundreds of thousands of our ground troops in invasion.

Then one day the combined American and British air navies will let loose all hell along the coastlines, to open up beach-heads for our men. This bombardment likely will continue several days—the most devilish rain of death ever let loose from the clouds. When that bombing gets under way, it will be our signal that the invasion is at hand.

DEATHS

MRS. DELBERT HEISLER

Mrs. Metta Heisler, 65, of Palmyra, wife of Delbert Heisler, died at her home at 2:20 p. m. Saturday following a brief illness. She was the mother of Miss Inez Heisler, Salem school teacher.

Mrs. Heisler, born at Charlestown, O. March 29, 1878, had lived in the vicinity of Palmyra for 44 years. She was a member of the Community church there.

Besides her husband, she leaves two daughters, Miss Inez Heisler, Salem, and Mrs. C. L. Manley of Copley, O.; one son, Pfc. Charles G. Heisler, in the U. S. armed forces in England, and three grandchildren.

Funeral service will be held at 1 p. m. Tuesday at the Woods funeral home in Ravenna, in charge of Rev. C. C. Knipe of Wayland. Burial will be in West cemetery, Palmyra.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight.

MRS. JAMES C. MCCONNOR

Mrs. Mary B. McConnor, 75, wife of James C. McConnor, died of a heart ailment at 10:30 p. m. Saturday at the Salem City hospital following two weeks' illness.

She was born in Pittsburgh, May 31, 1868. She was a member of the Methodist church and had taught the Helping Hand class for a number of years. She was also a member of Perry grange and the Women's Relief Corps. Mr. and Mrs. McConnor celebrated their golden wedding anniversary six years ago.

Surviving are her husband; one son, Carl B.; four grandchildren; one great-grandchild; one sister, Mrs. Mattie Spencer, of Phoenix, Va. One son and one daughter preceded her in death.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home, in charge of Rev. Carl Asmus. Burial will be in Grandview cemetery.

Friends may call this evening at the funeral home.

MRS. OTIS RAINES

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Otis Raines of Barborton, mother of Chaplain R. L. Raines, former Salvation Army officer in Salem, now of Mt. Vernon. Funeral rites will be held Tuesday at the home in Barborton.

HORNER FUNERAL

Funeral service for David Horner, 87, who died Saturday afternoon, was to have been held at 2 this afternoon at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home in charge of Rev. C. F. Evans. Burial was in Hope cemetery.

MRS. ZORA BARNES

HANOVERTON, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Elizabeth Barnes, 72, wife of Zora Barnes of New Alexander, died at 2:15 p. m. Saturday at the Central Clinic following several years' illness.

She was born Aug. 31, 1872, at New Alexander where she had lived all her life. She was a member of the New Alexander Christian church.

Surviving are her husband; one daughter, Mrs. George Zepernick of New Alexander; one sister, Mrs. John Snel of Cleveland, and one

CHICAGO GRAIN

Grains opened mixed today. Prices of most contracts declined below the previous close shortly after the opening. However, May wheat remained strong in response to a boost in wheat futures ceilings from $1.71 1/2 to $1.73 1/2.

Wheat started 1/4 lower to 2 cents higher, May $1.73-1.73 1/2, oats were 1/4 to 1 cent lower, May 79 1/2-79, and rye was 1/4 to 1 1/2 higher, May $1.33 to 1.32 1/2. Rye immediately dropped below Saturday's finish.

REPORTED ON A NEW FRONT

LIEUT. GEN. GEORGE S. PATTON, JR., and his American Seventh Army, may now be fighting their way inland on Yugoslavia's Adriatic coast. According to a report from Zagreb through Stockholm, "several crack Allied divisions" landed and began heavy fighting. (International) grandson, Charles Zepernick of Dayton.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Maple funeral home in Kensington in charge of Rev. Nelson Zimmerman, pastor of the Methodist church in Kensington. Burial will be in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Friends may call today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Zepernick.

SCREEN TESTS

Because the examining staff at the Columbus induction station operates only the first half of the month and in Toledo the last half, Goble said men from this area called for pre-induction examinations this month would be sent to other induction stations in Ohio and West Virginia.

Goble said that men appealing 1-A classifications must report for pre-induction examinations as called even though no action has been taken on their appeal. Any appeal decision will be considered when made but lack of action can not delay physical examinations, he added.

Gable In Auto Mishap

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—Army Air Forces Capt. Clark Gable, unscathed in bombing missions over France and Germany, is nursing bruises sustained in an automobile collision.

Gable, a police report said, was making a boulevard stop when the rear of his car was struck by a war worker's auto. Its driver and three passengers were taken to a hospital, but Gable did not require treatment.

BACK IN GRANDMA'S DAY
Goble often called for medicated mutton suet as a "home remedy" to comfort muscle aches, coughing. Today, it's for Penetro, modern medication in a base containing mutton suet. Penetro's doseable action relieves these miseries—(1) vapors to soothe stuffy nose (2) a little warming plaster right where rubbed on. 25c. Double supply, 35c. Get Penetro.
